A NEW ENTERPRISE.

English Capitalists to Operate All Water Route from England to Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 9.—Another syndicate of British capitalists has turned its attention to a new field for profitable investments, and has selected this city as the base of operations. The great lakes are to be used for the establishment of a direct and continuous water communication between Chicago and the sea ports of Great Britain. The vessels to be employed in this service will be of such a tonnage as to pass through the Canadian canals in safety and yet be thoroughly fitted for ocean travel. The proposed line will result in a great saving of freight and would be especially attractive to invalid passengers who would otherwise be compelled to travel thousands of miles by land to the Atlantic seaboard. The representative of the syndicate, J. D. Fairfax, of London, who is at the Leland Hotel, admits he is here to organize the Chicago terminus. The corporation will be known as "The Atlantic & Great Lakes Navigation & Trading Company, Limited." It will build and operate its own vessels, for which purpose $5,000,000 have been subscribed. Already contracts have been made with the large importers of Chicago, Milwaukee and Detroit, Mr. Fairfax says, by which the merchants have agreed to ship and to instruct their foreign agents to ship all goods via this line.

THE CHILIAN REBELLION.

Balmaceda and Insurgent Troops Meet and the Former are Routed.

NEW YORK, July 9.—The Herald's Washington special says a cablegram from Iquiqui, signed by Fredrico Errazuriz, minister of foreign affairs for the insurgents, was received by the representatives of the Chilian congressional party here late last night. It states that the army of Balmaceda, while advancing from Coquimbo to the valley of Huasco, was met by the insurgent army at a point four leagues south of Vallenar. An engagement, the dispatch goes on to say, took place to-day, and after a fierce fight Balmaceda's troops were driven back. The triumph of the insurgents was complete.

Irish Press Opinions.

DUBLIN, July 9.—The Parnellite press is very much dejected over the result of the parliamentary election in Carlow. The Freeman's Journal declares there is no more chance for Ireland obtaining home rule than there is of her getting the moon. The paper adds that the electors have abandoned their independence for the British party yoke.

The Express (Conservative) says that the English will learn from Carlow that the Irish tenant farmer, when not actuated by insane land hunger, is a puppet in the hands of the Roman Catholic priests and unfit to be an elector.

The National Press (McCarthyite) says the Carlow men dealt a death blow to the faction of Parnell, from which there is no longer any peril. It is merely a temporary nuisance; the insolence of the self-constituted dictator has been rebuked.

The Free Press Wins.

WINNIPEG, July 9.—The libel suit of Martin vs. the Free Press terminated at 10:30 last night, when the jury returned a unanimous verdict in favor of the defendants, the Free Press Co. The suit was brought by ex-Attorney-General Martin in connection with editorial comments of the Free Press on the contract with the Northern Pacific Railway Company, especially on the $500 a mile clause, which it was hinted was for boodling purposes.

PUBLIC WORKS SCANDAL.

THE WHOLE DEPARTMENT APPARENTLY ROTTEN.

Langevin, the Minister, Got $10,000—Perley, the Engineer, Got $2000 Worth of Jewelry—A Clerk Gets $100—Deputy Minister Burgess Has a Finger in the Pie.

OTTAWA, July 9.—At the privileges and elections committee to-day Perley admitted that he refused the $2000 offered him by Murphy, but that he would take a present. The present came to Mrs. Perley in the shape of $1800 worth of jewelry. He also admitted that one of the clerks got $100 for information given to Murphy. Nicholas Connolly was next examined, and his testimony was that he did not recollect anything about the various $5000 checks he signed and endorsed on account of the firm. As a matter of fact Nicholas remembered nothing at all of the events. He proved that Bancroft, who got the contract for the Kingston graving dock, was a myth, and that himself and his brother got the contract.

OTTAWA, July 8.—There were strange developments in to-day's meeting of the public accounts committee. Mr. Somerville submitted to a severe examination several clerks employed in the Interior department. It transpired that the clerks under assumed names signed checks, and drew extra pay for work done after hours. Turner, a clerk, admitted he had received $237 extra for work performed under the name of Joseph Wright, he possessed a power of attorney, but had received verbal authority from Wright, whom he had not seen more than three or four times in five years. Mr. Henry, secretary, admitted that the substituting of extra work was being carried on extensively. Mr. Burgess, deputy minister, said he did not know whether Wright was a fictitious name or not. Henry also stated that on one occasion Mr. Burgess asked him to make out a check payable to Humphrey's, a clerk in the department, for $200, although entitled to $100. Subsequently Burgess explained the matter. The department owed his late father-in-law $100 for the work performed in connection with the Forestry commission. Mr. Burgess had previously advanced his father-in-law the amount and informed witness he had taken this means to recoup himself. He admitted, however, the procedure was irregular and odoriferous.

The cross-examination of Owen Murphy was concluded by Osler. Edgar questioned the witness about the blank left in the statement that Tarte had published, in which he said: "I gave $10,000 to ——." He said this was money he gave to Langevin. He did not want Tarte to know of that. Edgar next asked if witness ever made a gift to Perley or any of his family. Murphy said Michael Connolly had suggested to him that they should give something to Perley, and he was sent to Ottawa to give $2000 to Perley, if he would take it. This was in January, 1887. Perley refused the money, but said he would take a little present, naming what it was. Witness went to Montreal and bought a present of jewellery worth $1885. While in Ottawa he gave $100 to a clerk in Perley's office, and the other $15 of the $2000 he applied to his own expenses. To Geoffrion he said he bought the jewellery at the store of Henry Birks in Montreal, and expressed it to Mrs. Perley. He sent no name with it, so that it need not be known whence it came. He met Perley afterwards wearing one of the rings, and Perley rebuked him for sending so expensive a present. To Dickey, the witness said the present was in diamond rings and brooches. He could not tell how many there were. The brooches also were all diamonds. There were some bracelets, set with diamonds, and a gentleman's diamond ring. He took a receipt from Birks, but did not know where it was now. To Osler, he said it was Birks himself who sold him the jewelry. He bought it on January 26 and shipped it by the Canadian Express. When Perley refused the cash, he agreed to accept a diamond ring, describing what he wanted, and a breast pin, and said witness might also purchase something for Mrs. Perley. Since he gave the $100 he had not met the clerk. He had no communication with the clerk before or since, but knew the young man was employed in the Chief Engineer's office. Murphy's examination was ended and he was given permission to leave the city subject to recall. He said he would be found in Quebec, if wanted. Sir John Thompson asked that Murphy should attend to-morrow and go through the Public Works Department, to see if he could identify the clerk to whom he gave the $100. Murphy said it would be inconvenient to attend to-morrow. The committee then allowed him to go until Thursday.

The Kaiser's Movements.

LONDON, July 9.—After breakfast at Buckingham Palace this morning, the Emperor, accompanied by a few members of his suite and some of the gentlemen of his English guard of honor, mounted their horses and proceeded to Hyde Park, where the imperial visitor and companions enjoyed the pleasure of a mile and a half canter along the historic Rotten Row. The pedestrian path and its numerous benches furnished standing and sitting room for a large number of persons who had received an inkling of the proposed imperial ride. The Kaiser rode a spirited animal, the management of which afforded him an opportunity of exhibiting his superior horsemanship. Compliments were heard on all sides, as the Emperor with graceful force steadily held his restive horse just a neck ahead of the foremost animal, at the same time acknowledged with courteous inclination of his head the respectful salutations of the onlookers. The ride evidently was keenly relished by the Emperor and his followers. Later in the day the Kaiser granted audiences to deputations from the various German social and benevolent societies of London. In each instance formal addresses were made by the chairman of the visiting societies, to all of which the Kaiser made a brief response. When these formalities were disposed of both the Kaiser and Kaiserine conversed with the members of the deputations. A special reception was accorded to a number of officers of the German reserve army, who are now in London, and who appeared in full dress uniform of their military ranks. To each of the officers to Kaiser spoke words of friendly greeting. The German warriors were followed by a deputation from the Anti-Slavery Society, the chairman of which read an address to the Kaiser William, in which that monarch was urged to use his powerful influence in bringing about the suppression of the infamous traffic in human flesh and blood. In his response to the address, the Kaiser evinced a thorough knowledge of the subject matter. He referred in energetic terms to the inhumanity of African slave dealers and the sufferings of their unhappy victims. The Emperor, however, declared he doubted the correctness of Livingstone's statement that for every slave who arrived alive just ten died on the journey thither from the interior. There also waited upon the Emperor and Empress a deputation from the Fishmonger's Hall, who presented an address in behalf of their ancient guild. The Kaiser cordially thanked the fishmongers for their courteous and kindly address and then spent a few minutes in conversation with the gentlemen of the delegation, among whom was the Prince of Wales, who is a member of the society, and who, as a special mark of respect to the Kaiser, had accompanied them on the visit to Buckingham Palace.

Bismarck Will Fight.

BERLIN, July 8.—It is reported in diplomatic circles, that unless Count von Munster, German ambassador at Paris, denies the story circulated by DeBlowitz, to the effect that the late emperor was desirous of getting rid of Prince Bismarck, and that the ex-chancellor's advancement of Count Herbert Bismarck, his son, was a glaring instance of nepotism in politics, Count Bismarck will challenge the German ambassador to give him satisfaction on the field of honor.

WHICH WAY OUT, PLEASE?

The Senate, That Was, of the B.C. University All in a Quandary.

The remaining senators of the University of British Columbia met this morning in the members' reading room of the Legislative Assembly. There were present the late Vice-Chancellor R. P. Cook, His Lordship Bishop Sillitoe, Rev. Messrs. McLaren, Robson and Jamieson; Dr. Bentley, and Messrs. Fred. Schofield and J. M. O'Brien, from the Mainland; Dr. Powell, Chancellor, from Victoria.

The principal topic under conversation, rather than discussion, for the meeting was altogether informal, was the standing of the senate that was, and the present position of the senators. In this connection the following letter was considered:

VICTORIA, July 7, 1891.

Dr. I. W. Powell.

SIR,—In reply to your letter of the 2nd inst., with reference to the meeting of the Senate of the University, I am directed by the Attorney-General to state that he is of opinion that there were not sufficient members present at the meeting, convened by you, on the 2nd of July, to form a quorum. No question could, therefore be decided fixing an adjournment to a future date. Under the circumstances, and referring to Section 17 of the Act, it would seem that no further questions can now be passed upon by the Senate.

I have the honor to be,
Your obedient servant,
(Sd.) HENRY A. BARTON,
Deputy Attorney-General.

This was like a stone wall with no top to it to admit of climbing, and the gentlemen present simply sat and talked. By law, the meeting should have been held on the 2nd of this month, but as that was the day on which the Vancouverites were to recover from the effects of the festivities incident to the 1st of July celebration, the Chancellor, Dr. Powell, announced that the meeting would be held formally on the 2nd as required by the Act, and that it would then be adjourned until to-day. On the 2nd a quorum of senators was not present, and consequently a motion to adjourn could not be made. The Victoria senators have resigned in a body, and the Attorney-General has given his opinion that no meeting can be held to-day, the powers of the Act having lapsed.

Moved by Bishop Sillitoe, seconded by Rev. R. Jamieson, That whereas the four members of the Senate who met in this place on the second instant were under the impression that the Chancellor's suggestion to adjourn the statutory meeting of Senate until to-day could only be carried out if nine members were present, and therefore separated without any formal opening or adjournment; And whereas there is consequently a doubt as to the technical legality of this meeting. The Senate hereby authorizes the Chancellor to submit the question to the Lieut.-Governor in Council, under section 1 of "The Supreme Court Reference Act, 1891," and in the event of this meeting being held to be a legal one, to summon a meeting of the Senate for the transaction of business within one month after such decision has been rendered.

The Senate met again at 4 o'clock, the Chancellor in the chair.

Moved by F. Schofield, seconded by Dr. Tunstall, that J. M. O'Brien be appointed secretary pro tem. Present: Chancellor, Vice-Chancellor, Rt. Rev. Bishop Sillitoe, Rev. E. D. McLaren, Rev. E. Robson, Rev. R. Jamieson, Dr. Bentley, Dr. Tunsfalt, F. Schofield and J. M. O'Brien.

On the suggestion of the Attorney-General the following resolution was moved:

Moved by Rev. Mr. McLaren, seconded by Dr. Bentley, That the Senate do now adjourn.

Steamer Balalow came in during the night from Valdez Island and the logging camps. She brought down a large quantity of sheep skins and raw wool.

SEEING THE METROPOLIS.

THE MOVEMENTS OF THE KAISER AND HIS RETINUE.

They Are Being Royally Entertained by the Royal Family—France Will Help the Chilian Insurgents—Parnell Slandered by One of His Employees.

LONDON, July 9.—The Kaiser dined at Buckingham palace last evening. About 9 o'clock the Kaiser and Kaiserine with the Prince and Princess of Wales, proceeded in state to the opera house, Covent Gardens, where they were enthusiastically received. They were escorted by the household troops and the route was lined with soldiers. To-day the Kaiser attends a garden party given by the Prince and Princess of Wales at Marlborough House. The Kaiser will dine with Lord Londonderry in the evening and attend a performance of the "Golden Legend" at Albert Hall. The preparations for the reception of the Kaiser at the Guildhall are now complete and it will be one of the most magnificent events in the history of London. Several members of the imperial suite arrived from Windsor to-day and more will come this evening so that the procession will include all the distinguished members of the Kaiser's retinue. The line of procession will give a grand opportunity for everybody to see the young German sovereign. Their majesties the Kaiser and Kriserine will go through the city from Buckingham Palace by the way of the Strand, Fleet street, Ludgate Hill and Cheapside. The route will be guarded by militia and volunteers, but there will be no more restraint of the people than necessary to preserve order. The police authorities have concluded, after thorough enquiry, that nothing is to be feared in the way violence or insult, and that a harsh display of force in guarding the imperial progress through the streets might provoke the people, who are unaccustomed to continental methods of that kind, and perhaps lead to an unfriendly demonstration. No arrests will be made or have been made of foreigners suspected of being dangerous unless something more can be shown against them than the mere fact of suspicion. The streets will be gaily decorated. At the Guildhall the Recorder of London will read an address of welcome, in which a touching allusion will be made to the Kaiser's father, the late Emperor Frederick, and the Empress mother, both of whom were presented with an address by the City of London on the occasion of their marriage. The Kaiser will reply briefly, and then will follow luncheon and brief speeches.

FRANCE TO HELP THE INSURGENTS.

A Paris dispatch says that according to one of the Chilian Congressional delegates, Claudis Vicuna, who has been elected President of Chili by the Balmaceda party to come into office next September, is as obnoxious to the Congressional party as Balmaceda himself, and of whom the president elect is an intimate associate and tool. It is charged here by a person intimately connected with the Chilian legation that the Congressional delegates have made a bargain with the French Government whereby in return for the aid of France and the handing over indirectly to the insurgents the war vessels built in France for the Chilian Government the Congressional party agree to recognize the notorious Dreyfus claim, which is backed by the French Government, and which Balmaceda rejected some months ago with a determination that won some applause both in Europe and America. It is said that this act of Balmaceda prejudiced the French Government against him.

PARNELL SLANDERED.

As to the Carlow defeat, Mr. Parnell is said to feel most keenly the conduct of a man named Larkin, a quarryman in Mr. Parnell's employ at Arklow, who went to Carlow during the contest and made speeches accusing Mr. Parnell of abusing and underpaying the men. A number of respectable persons of Arklow and vicinity have refuted the slander and claim Mr. Parnell is a kind employer and has done much to benefit the neighborhood. General Wood, brother of Mrs. Parnell, will command one of the divisions at Wimbledon during the Kaiser's review on Saturday.

HOLLAND WILL REMAIN NEUTRAL.

Significant expressions have appeared in the Holland newspapers since the Kaiser's visit, to the effect that the Hollanders, while doing honor to the Kaiser, desire to remain in international matters as they are now—that is, entirely neutral.

TELEGRAMS TO BISMARCK STOPPED.

Chancellor Von Caprivi has caused to be communicated to the president of the administrative authorities at Siegen an expression of approval of his course in preventing telegrams from being sent to Prince Bismarck, approving his past services and his course toward the Government.

Buenos Ayres Disturbances.

LONDON, July 9.—Dispatches from Buenos Ayres say that fresh revolutionary disturbances occurred in various parts of the Argentine Republic. The government is actively exerting itself to suppress the revolt in the Provinces of Cardoba, Catamarca and Errerios.

Stranded Steamer.

LONDON, July 9.—The German steamer Cleopatra, which recently struck a sunken rock in the Straits of Magellan, has been stranded to prevent her sinking. The passengers and crew of the Cleopatra were saved. The steamer is fast going to pieces.

The Education Bill.

LONDON, July 9.—In the House of Commons this morning, the Education Bill was passed to a third reading.

Spurgeon's Condition.

LONDON, July 9.—Mr. Spurgeon's [illegible] were this morning and [illegible] as strength.

THE NEW STEAMSHIP LINE.

From New York to Port Townsend via San Francisco.

The California Steamship Line will control four large steamers, newly built, the first of which will leave New York for Port Townsend on July 12th. The pioneer vessel of the company is named the Keweenaw. She is but recently off the stocks at Lake Superior, where she was built, and she has just arrived in New York from Montreal. Writing of her to the Johnson Locke Mercantile Company, which firm will act as agents in San Francisco for the new line, the owner says: "She made upwards of 12 knots during her trip from Montreal to New York, and if she keeps this up it means something less than 55 days to San Francisco."

The Keweenaw has a cargo carrying capacity of 3500 tons, and as an instance of the enthusiasm with which the advent of the new line of steamers was received, it may be mentioned that the whole of her tonnage room was bespoken within a few days after her arrival in New York. In the construction of the steamer named, the latest knowledge and experience in shipbuilding have been combined. Her engines are one of her chief merits, combining, as they do, high power with small coal consuming capacity.

Two vessels which will probably follow the Keweenaw at intervals of forty days, are the Minneola and Montauk. The Minneola, which is built on the same lines as the Keweenaw, will leave New York some time in August.

Speaking of the prospects of the new line, Frank S. Johnson says:

"There has never been a new venture received with greater enthusiasm. There are upwards of thirty or forty merchants in our office a day engaging freight. They seem to look upon the scheme as a means of enfranchisement from the railroads. Why, some of our patrons are actually shipping lard from Kansas City to New York, and from the last-named city to San Francisco by our steamers. This line is an accomplished and enormous success."

World's Fair Notes.

A herd of 85 buffalo will be exhibited at the Fair.

An exhibit from Alaska will be collected under the auspices of the Government's Indian bureau and geological department, provided Congress appropriates money for that purpose, as it is expected it will.

An enterprising Nebraska man says that he will take to the Exposition a crowd of 50,000 school children from Omaha and vicinity. He proposes to have each car load in charge of a teacher, and he has already begun negotiations with the railroads for special rates and special trains.

The Exposition officials and those of the city of Chicago, have agreed upon police and fire arrangements for the Exposition grounds. Completely equipped police station and engine house will be erected at once, and the city will furnish them with a full complement of apparatus and men.

An appropriation of $150,000 has been made by the Exposition directory, for the expense of the ceremonies attending the dedication of the buildings October 12, 1892. The ceremonies will be extended through several days, and some 15,000 militia and U.S. troops, it is expected, will participate.

One hundred thousand soldiers gathered from the regular army and national guard would make an effective feature of the World's Fair, so Gen. Miles thinks. The general has suggested such a display in a letter to President Thomas W. Palmer, outlining the distinguished soldier's views on the Exposition.

As soon as they can be prepared 100,000 copies will be issued of a fine water color lithograph representing a bird's-eye view of the Exposition buildings and grounds. The work will appear in 13 colors. Charles Graham, the artist of Harper's Weekly, has made the sketches. These lithographs will appear in public places throughout the world.

Commissioner Hershfield, of Montana, has asked of Director-General Davis that 200 by 300 feet of space be reserved for Montana. He said that $100,000 would be spent on the building a one, and that the State contemplated constructing a mountain to illustrate placer mining, miners' camps, geysers, waterfalls and other adjuncts of mining regions.

A permanent art palace will be built also in Lake Front park, towards the erection of which the exhibition will contribute $200,000. During the Exposition this building will be used by the World's Congress Auxiliary for the holding of some of its numerous congresses. After the fair the Chicago Art Institute will take possession of it and make it the home of a permanent art collection.

The fine arts exhibit, it is now definitely and finally settled, will be at Jackson Park, the strong effort which was made to have it located in the Lake Front Park having been defeated in the Directory. The fine arts building, which will cost about $600,000, will stand in the northern portion of the grounds, and will be nearly surrounded by the buildings of the several States of the Union.

Thirty acres in the northern portion of Jackson Park have been reserved for sites for the State buildings. The ground has already been apportioned among the States, consideration being had for the size and importance of each and the amount it will probably expend upon its building and collective exhibit. The entire space will be artistically divided by beautiful walks and driveways.

It is next to certain that the Exposition will be open evenings, in all of its departments. The Directory has called for plans and estimates for lighting by electricity, all of the buildings. It is proposed to light both the buildings and grounds so brilliantly that everything can be seen at night as well as by day, and it is expected that the scene at night will be one of marvelous brilliancy.

Gen. Miles would have the World's Fair illustrate the development of the country from the geological era, dividing the displays historically into four periods. The military feature is suggested in addition to this general historical exhibit, and Gen. Miles thinks would be peculiarly appropriate as demonstrating the strength of the nation's citizen soldiery. It would gather together members of the national guard from various states, upbuild a national patriotic spirit, and unite the organizations of different states in a spirit of fraternity. Aside from the good results thus obtained the officers and troops would want to come to the fair anyway, and most of them would prefer to come to such a mobilization as suggested.

At a meeting of representatives of various religious, benevolent and reformatory organizations, held recently in New York for the purpose, a committee of five was chosen to arrange, if possible, for the erection of a separate building at the Exposition, in which can be shown the methods and results of every description of religious missionary and philanthropic work in this country.

The Custom House Scandal.

TACOMA, July 7.—Special Agent Mulkey, of the Treasury Department, is back from Port Townsend, where he has been examining into the Bradshaw charges. He refused to talk about his findings saying the department hires such officers as himself to make such investigations, and they are jealous about any facts being given out.

For many months influence has been brought to bear upon Collector Bradshaw to have him appoint Tacomans to positions of trust and emolument. Among the first fruits of these efforts was the notification received to-day by W. H. S. Green to report forthwith for orders at Port Townsend. The position sought by Mr. Green is that of deputy inspector of customs. He left for Port Townsend this evening.

Killed by a Bicyclist.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Rev. Dr. Wm. A. Schubert, a retired Episcopal minister, 60 years of age, was accidently killed last night by a little boy named James Grant. The old gentleman, who was quite feeble, was crossing the street near his home, and the boy was riding by on a bicycle. Just as he neared Dr. Schubert the bicycle struck a stone and the boy was thrown with great force against Dr. Schubert who fell heavily to the asphalt pavement. He was carried home and died shortly after. The boy was placed under arrest.

Educators Leave for Toronto.

TACOMA, July 8.—A party of delegates to the National Teachers' Association to meet at Toronto, left this afternoon for that city. The party includes State Superintendent R. B. Bryan and wife, of Olympia; Superintendent F. B. Gault, of the Tacoma public schools; Superintendent Barnard, of Seattle; and Superintendent Bemis and wife, of Spokane. Superintendent Gault will respond to the address of welcome at Toronto on behalf of the Pacific coast states.

An Awful Fall.

BLAINE, July 8.—A party of prospectors arrived last night from Mount Baker. They bring news of the death of Richard L. Smith. While standing on the brink of a steep bank his gun was accidentally discharged, cutting an artery in his left arm. He fell down the bank 200 feet and bled to death. Smith came here from Brandon, Wis., and was 35 years old and unmarried.

Distillery Destroyed.

LONDON, July 9.—Holland's distillery at Depfort, a suburb of this city, is on fire. Notwithstanding the large number of engines on hand and utmost efforts of the fire brigade it is conceded the building is doomed to complete destruction.

Banana Peel on the Sidewalk.

The street car had passed, but to catch it he reckoned,
So he ran like a deer, and shouted and beckoned,
Till he planted his heel
On a smooth bit of peel—
Then he saw half a million of stars in a second.

He was in too great a hurry; better have waited for another car. There are cases, however, where haste is necessary. If you have night-sweats, feverishness, weak, sore lungs and a hacking cough, do not lose an hour in obtaining a supply of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Delay in such cases is dangerous; it may be fatal. Before the disease has made too great progress, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a certain cure. In fact, it's guaranteed to benefit or cure, or money paid for it promptly refunded.

ALDERMANIC BOARD.

Government Asks the Council to Allow a Nanaimo Leper on Darcy Island.

All the members of the City Council with the exception of Ald. Smith, were present at the regular meeting last evening.

After the council had been in session a few minutes the mayor requested that he be excused for a short time and asked Ald. McKillican to take the chair in his absence. His worship returned again after about half an hour.

The minutes of the previous meetings were read and adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS

were received from

The city assessor endorsing returns of assessment roll, which showed assessable property as follows: Lands, $13,049,115; improvements, $4,662,330; total, $17,711,445.—Received and adopted.

Provincial auditor, J. McB. Smith, showing the amount of money expended for teachers salaries for the city by the Government to be $10,335, one third of which the city is called upon to pay. Referred to finance committee.

A. Campbell Redy, calling the attention of the council the necessity of appointing school trustees in accordance with the act.—Received and filed.

W. Ridgeway Wilson, on behalf of Charles Vearn, asking the council to remove some soil on Rupert street as it was delaying building operations.—Referred to the street committee with power to act.

W. J. Lawson, reminding the council of promise to put in a box drain on Bay street.—Referred to street committee to attend to.

D. W. Higgins, president of the National Electric Tramway Company, re the opening of a street through the property of Bishop Cridge and Dr. Powell, and asking that the council take steps to have the matter attended to at once, so that the tramway company could commence operations.—Received and filed.

Also another communication from the same gentleman, saying that since sending the above letter he had received a communication from Bishop Cridge saying that all negotiations for the opening of the road were at an end.—Received and acknowledged with thanks.

The city audit, showing total expenditure up to June 30.—Referred to the finance committee to report.

Thos. Hooper, two requests for permission to put certain extensions to buildings now in course of construction—Permission granted under usual conditions.

Theo. Davie, attorney-general, saying that there was a leprous Chinaman living in the suburbs of Nanaimo, and asking that council permit him to be placed in the lazaretto on Darcy Island, the Government to pay one-sixth of the outlay already expended.

Ald. Holland moved that the communication be received and request granted.

Ald. Renouf thought the Provincial Government should pay one-fifth.

Ald. Richards thought that if the Government was prepared to stand the expense of lepers from Nanaimo, it ought to pay the whole amount already expended by the city and take the lazaretto out of the city's hands.

Ald. Holland thought that as there were accommodations for six on the island, and there were only five there at present, it would be only reasonable to take this leper, and accept the assistance offered by the Government.

Ald. Munn agreed with Ald. Holland, provided that it would not conflict with the efforts now being made to have the Dominion Government take charge of the lazaretto

His Worship Mayor Grant was in favor of granting the request, as the Provincial Government had very materially aided the city when approached on the subject of starting the lazaretto, and had given Darcy Island for the purpose, notwithstanding that several offers had been made to purchase the island. He had been led to understand that at some time either the Dominion or Provincial Governments would take the lazaretto in charge.

The motion to grant the permission asked was carried.

The police magistrate question was again up for discussion, Ald. Renouf moving that as Mr Belyea was the choice of the Council, the Government be requested to appoint him a justice of the peace. After considerable discussion the motion was passed.

BY-LAWS.

Ald. Holland asked leave to introduce a by-law to amend council by-laws, which was read a first time and passed.

Ald. Holland asked leave to introduce a by-law to sell the city gravel pits in Spring Ridge property.—Read a first time and passed.

REPORTS.

The street committee reported as follows:

Your committee, having considered the undermentioned subjects, beg to report and recommend as follows: Re J. F. Tiarks, requesting that the present gravel sidewalk on Dallas Road be continued to Boyd street, and that a plank sidewalk be laid along Boyd street to Niagara street, and on Niagara street to Menzies street, part of which is already laid—Recommend that it be attended to when funds permit.

Re petition of Samuel Carto and 11 others, requesting the council to take over and make the thoroughfare called Tolmie avenue, that the consideration of this petition be deferred.

Sanitary Officer Bailey reported that the box drains throughout the city had been cleaned out, and that all the surface drains were kept in clean condition. Twenty-six notices and one summons had been served.—Received and adopted.

Chief Engineer Deasy reported as follows:

No. of fire alarms, 4; drills, 2; estimated loss, $285; alarms from January 1st to June 30th, 26; loss for first six months, $3435.

The Tiger steam fire engine was tested at the Albion Iron Works on the 2nd inst. The boiler was subjected to a test of 200 pounds cold water pressure and showed no defects.

A new two wheel one horse hose cart was received June 4th and placed in No. 2 House.

I would respectfully call your attention to the necessity of passing a by-law in this city. Repairing and altering wooden shacks increases the danger from fire and will eventually cause a serious conflagration in the business portion.

I also again would respectfully recommend that some arrangement be made for fire protection near the outer wharf and at Victoria West.

The four wheel hose carriage requires repairing and should be painted.

The department require two controlling nozzles and two six gallon chemical extinguishers.

A few hundred feet of garden hose would be very useful during warm weather to suppress grass and roof fires.

During the month it was necessary to procure a new horse stall and repair the floor of No. 2 House.

The improvements required in the sleeping apartment of No. 1 Fire Hall in order to make things comfortable for the call men (who sleep there at their own option) should be made. These men are on hand during the night at a moment's notice and should they move out the city would gain nothing. At present 12 men are on hand all night and this force is as useful to the city during the night as fully paid firemen. The expense would be small in comparison with the advantage to the city. Referred to Fire Wardens.

Ald. Renouf, reported verbally for the committee for the establishment of the home for the indigent poor. He spoke of the successful opening of the home, and said that the committee extended its thanks to the citizens and merchants of Victoria for the material help that had been given. Only yesterday Dr. Helmcken had left $25 at his store for the home.

Ald. Munn moved that a special meeting be called for Friday evening for the purpose of appointing school trustees as provided for in the school regulations.—Carried.

Council adjourned at 10:30.

DR. G. M. DAWSON.

One of the British Commissioners to Behring Sea.

Dr. G. M. Dawson, who has been appointed one of the British commissioners in the Behring sea arbitration, is one of the best known geologists in America. He comes of distinguished stock, being a son of Sir William Dawson, the veteran scientist and principal of McGill University, Montreal. Dr. Dawson was born at Pictou, N.S., in 1849. His college course was brilliant. At the School of Mines, where he graduated in 1872, he won several prizes and soon after was appointed geologist to the Boundary commission exploring the border region from the Lake of the Woods to the Rocky mountains. In 1875 Dr. Dawson was assigned to the Canadian geological survey, doing valuable work in British Columbia and the Northwest Territories. In 1877 he commanded the Yukon river expedition in Alaska, making a journey of 1300 miles in boats, with one portage of 50 miles from the basin of the Liard to that of the Yukon. Previous to this expedition Dr. Dawson travelled extensively in Europe, inspecting mines and metallurgical works. Dr. Dawson has written many books on geological subjects, and they are generally regarded as authorities. He writes extensively for magazines. He belongs to numerous scientific societies and had recently conferred upon him the high honor of being elected a member of the Royal Society in England, in recognition of his services to geology. Last year he was made an L.L.D. by Queen's University, Kingston.

"Just as Good."

Say some dealers who try to sell a substitute preparation when a customer calls for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Do not allow any such false statements as this induce you to buy what you do not want. Remember that the only reason for making it is that a few cents more profit will be made on the substitute. Insist upon having the best medicine—Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is Peculiar to Itself.

THE CRY OF MILLIONS

OH, MY BACK!

STOP IT NOW,

SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE.

I have been troubled many years with disease of the kidneys and have tried many different remedies and have sought aid from different physicians without relief. About the 9th of April I was suffering from a very violent attack that almost prostrated me in such a manner that I was bent over. When I sat down it was almost impossible for me to get up alone, or to put on my clothes, when that Providence sent Dr. Henley, with the SALMON KIDNEY TEA, to my bedside. I immediately commenced using the tea. It had an almost miraculous effect, and to the astonishment of all the guests at the hotel, in a few days I was happy to state, that I was a new man. I will recommend the tea to all afflicted as I have been.

STILL THE COLONIST IS DUMB.

The Colonist still declines to answer our question:

DID OR DID NOT THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION MARK POOR LATIN SCHOLARS UP AND PROFICIENT LATIN SCHOLARS DOWN?

Why does not the Colonist answer this question? Is there anything so very dreadful about it? Is it not a question that any honest publication might safely answer? If the Colonist dare not answer it affirmatively we will be satisfied with a negative answer. Does the Colonist dare put itself on record as denying in black and white that the Department of Education DID NOT MARK POOR LATIN SCHOLARS UP AND PROFICIENT LATIN SCHOLARS DOWN? We are done with the Department of Education, at least, for the present. Why should we kick these miracles of Latin erudition after they are down? The question is now between the TIMES and the Colonist. Will not the Colonist so far accomodate the TIMES as to either deny or affirm the question the latter has propounded? Way should the Colonist fight so shy of so simple an interrogatory, and especially since it comes from a contemporary? Where is the Colonist's generosity? The TIMES is seeking light; will not the Colonist illumine its dark pathway through the mazes of JOHN ROBSON's school system, by either denying or affirming the question as to whether the Department of Education DID OR DID NOT MARK POOR LATIN SCHOLARS UP AND PROFICIENT LATIN SCHOLARS DOWN? The Colonist, in refusing to answer this question, is disobliging. Our contemporary is ungenerous. But we have another reason for putting this question to the Colonist. The Department is hedged in by piles of red tape, constitutional limitations, and all that sort of thing. In requesting the Department of Education to shed a bit of the blazing light of its refulgent intellectuality over a dead language we have to go through the circumlocution office, a sort of a political Scylla and Charybdis—JOHN ROBSON on one side Mr. POPE on the other. Unacquainted with the set of the currents which eddy arround these granite pillars of Latin erudition, we prefer to leave the navigation of this tortuous channel to the Leader of the Opposition. But there is no Scylla and Charybdis between the Colonist and the TIMES. No treacherous currents of constitutional procedeure and frowning cliffs of James Bay statesmen interpose to check journalistic amenities. Will the Colonist, then, surlily refuse to answer our question? Will the Colonist even say that it has no opinion in the matter? Come now, Colonist, as between a morning and evening publication tell us whether or no in your opinion the Department of Education MARKED POOR LATIN SCHOLARS UP AND PROFICIENT LATIN SCHOLARS DOWN?

ENGLISH OPINION.

The Toronto Globe quotes English opinion on the political situation in Canada to this effect:

"The result will be a development of the Liberal party, which seeks to effect commercial union with the United States, and is accused by its rivals of not being disinclined to make the union more complete. We are wholly unable to believe, in the face of such examples as the Southern States of the Union and our own Ireland, that an absence of custom houses is sufficient to bind states heartily together."

This is English opinion, and it is sensible as compared with the howling dervish loyalty of the Empire, and the turgid and longitudinal disquisitions of its prototype, the Vancouver Telegram.

There is a vast difference between trade and politics. It no more follows, as to states, that political reciprocity follows reciprocity in trade than that it follows that the drygoods merchant exchanging wares with a butcher should marry his daughter into the butcher's family. If, according to the Tory theory, reciprocity of sentiment follows reciprocity in trade, how does it come that political differences exist? how, in fact, do Tory editors account for Irish contumacy? No better instance of the stupidity of the Tory argument is afforded than in the case of the Northern and Southern States which traded and differed for 30 years, which fought for nearly five years, and which, though now united, differ as radically as ever over the question of "State sovereignty." The South to-day would secede from the North if it could. Hungary would separate from Austria if it dared. It is an even bet that Scotland would rather be an independent State. Coming down to local matters, the Mainland and the Island are not infatuated with each other. The Premier of the Province, even, who is supposed, in the exercise of his broad paternalism, to be as fond of Victoria as he is of Vancouver, was unable to say when interrogated by a Winnipeg reporter, that he was as much in love with one place as the other, and that commercially, between Vancouver and Victoria, it was a case of nip and tuck. The average Tory editor reminds us of the average American democrat, who, when the proposition was made to give the negro civil rights, shrieked out, "Do you suppose I want my daughter to marry a nigger?" Here's logic for you. The ipaque Tory and the obtuse American democrat should be shipped off to Central Africa, where, between their own reciprocal stupidity and the primitive intellectuality of STANLEY's dwarfs, they would be in their element.

WILLIAM II. VS. BISMARCK.

In the Forum for July, Professor HEINRICH GEFFCKIN, Privy Councillor, writes of the "policy" and character of WILLIAM II. of Germany. The Professor misnamed his article. Had he called it, BISMARCK, his character and his policy, he would have hit it for the general tenor of the article is Bismarckian and anti-Bismarckian at that. Of course it could not well be otherwise. Professor GEFFCKEN, pro Bismarckian, would lose his job, and privy councillorships do not grow on every bush. The The article, however, is not interesting, not that the writer tells anything that the industrious reporter has not already cabled to this continent, but because as compared with cablegrams the Professor's account of things from his point of view is consecutive and perspicuous. The Professor tells us first, that WILLIAM "was believed to be a devoted pupil of BISMARCK, adhering besides to the divine right of kings, with a strong leaning to reactionary tendencies." This, it seems, was a mistake. At the time this estimate of WILLIAM was formed he was a young man. That he is not a pupil of BISMARCK has been refuted by a three years' reign. As to BISMARCK's foreign policy, however, he certainly admired it. It raised Germany to a first-rate power and made Berlin the centre of European affairs. "WILLIAM ascended the throne," says the Professor," with the firm resolution to govern as well as reign. Under WILLIAM I. BISMARCK had enjoyed nearly absolute sway; the Emperor did not allow him to interfere in military affairs, but for the rest he was master." In conversation with his nearest personal friend, the old Emperor said: "I must support BISMARCK with all his intolerable qualities, because he is necessary for the prestige of the German empire," a saying, continues the Professor, "which marks at once the late Emperor's perspicacity and his high sense of duty."

It was a social question which led to the final rupture between BISMARCK and the young Emperor. The Emperor found it impossible to agree with the Chancellor in his stern repression of the Social Democracy which had outlawed a large proportion of the German population. The law against the Socialists had proved abortive, the number of Socialist electors having risen from 112,000 to 1,127,000. But BISMARCK would not acknowledge his error, and in the autumn session of 1889 presented a bill to make the law against the Social Democracy a permanent one; and to render it more stringent by a clause providing that the police should be entitled, not only to expel temporary social democrats from large towns, but to banish them perpetually. The bill fell to the ground. The reason which at that time generally understood, was that there already existed a hitch between the policy of BISMARCK and the Emperor, who had reached the conclusion that the law against the Socialists had proved barren, and who was further convinced that what was most necessary for social peace was a law for the protection of women's and children's labor, Sunday rest, etc. But, strange as it may appear, that was what BISMARCK had opposed, and finding himself overruled by the Emperor he resigned the ministry of commerce. BISMARCK's next step was to prepare a combination by which he would vanquish his opponents, his plan being to form a coalition of the Conservatives with the Ultramontane Centre party for which he had an interview with Dr. WINDTHORST. This interview brought matters to a crisis. The Emperor asked the Chancellor what had passed in that conversation. BISMARCK declined to tell, and added that he was ready to resign if he no longer possessed his sovereign's confidence. The Emperor took him at his word. BISMARCK was thunderstruck and a stormy scene ensued, but his reign was at an end. Thus fell a man, says Professor GEFFCKEN, who had enjoyed for 27 years a power never wielded by a prime minister since RICHELIEU. BISMARCK's was the rule of force. Comparing BISMARCK's methods with CAVOUR's, the professor says of the latter, quoting language that he used on his death bed, "No state of siege, none of these measures of absolute governments. Anyone can govern with the state of siege; the country must be moralized." With Bismarck it was the reverse; he always adhered to the Cæsarian system—the one man who undertakes to think for the whole people. To govern was, according to his idea, not to persuade, but to command, and representative government was to command with a flourish of speeches, which should always end in a happy subserviency to the ruling minister. So much for the "character and policy" of William II as reflected through the policy of his Iron Chancellor.

While inventors are busy with the work of making machines of death more effective and deadly, and chemists are experimenting with noiseless and smokeless powder, for the purpose of increasing the destructive power of an army, an unknown surgeon of the French army, M. COLIN, has made a suggestion in an entirely new direction. He recommends that the soldiers be supplied with rubber-heeled shoes, which will enable them to endure forced marches without becoming so foot-sore and fatigued, thus placing them on the line of battle quicker, in better condition for fighting and with less diminution of numbers from straggling. His idea is that a fresh man on the line of battle with a gun that can shoot ten shots a minute is better than a foot-sore man five miles away with a gun that can shoot fifty shots a minute. It is an undeniable fact in the art of war that the army which moves fastest, and reaches the point of contact the quickest and in the best condition, wins the most battles. It is possible that the rubber-heeled shoe is a greater invention than the magazine rifle.

Italy's policy of encouraging shipbuilding and navigation by bounties, adopted in 1885, has proved almost a complete failure. The law provides that for ten years a bounty of 12 cents per net ton would be paid from the national treasury to owners of steam and sailing vessels alike for every 1000 miles. Ship-builders were to receive $3 per gross ton for every wooden sailing vessel they might build, and $6 per ton for iron or steel hulls, while they would be entitled to $2 per horse-power for the engines they might construct and $24 a ton for their boilers. Furthermore, a bounty was provided on the basis of amount of freight carried, 20 cents per ton for steam and sailing vessels alike, were to be paid to all ships loaded up to three-fifths of their capacity, and coming from ports beyond the Straits of Gibraltar. Since January, 1886, the Italian Government has paid out nearly $3,000,000 under this law. Nevertheless, the decline in sailing tonnage has gone on more rapidly than before. It is true that there was at first an increase in steam tonnage, but it has since fallen back to the rate that prevailed before the passage of the law. At the same time Italy's foreign trade has declined. The only persons benefitted by the bounty system are the shipowners, who now have in their pockets the $3,000,000 taken from the over-burdened taxpayers.

Bonussing ship-building to stimulate commerce is something like a man attempting to lift himself by the straps of his boots. It is a grand mistake to suppose that private enterprise is not equal to the emergencies of ocean commerce.

The "ways to wealth" in relation to Mr. CARNEGIE, America's most plausible plutocrat, and who, now that he can afford it, is making his peace with his conscience by posing as a philanthropist, are thus described by the St. Paul Globe:

Mr. Carnegie's wealth was acquired directly through the defects of our modern laws. He and his fellows afford an example of what the American tariff can do for a man if he can only get himself under its protection. Our national laws are aimed to develop native industries, according to the theory of the Republican party. This is their object, and they have a magnificent way of accomplishing it. Their plan is to encourage men to go into one trade or another by shutting out competition, and in this way increasing their profits. They put a duty on foreign iron and foreign tin. This makes their price high, and the owners of American iron and tin mines can take their wares to market and get a big figure for them. Of course they want to do this and soon we have shafts sunk and blast furnaces blazing all over the land.

At the same time the pauper labor of Europe coming to our shores is admitted without restriction, and is carried to Western Pennsylvania to work for Mr. Carnegie and his friends. They get small pay for their services, and if they demand more they are discharged, and the limitless hordes of foreign proletariats are drawn on anew for recruits to take their places. Is it astonishing that Mr. Carnegie gets rich? He employs the cheapest sort of convict labor, the supply of which at the smallest compensation is unrestricted by government interference.

He gets the highest prices for his goods because the government imposes a tax which it calls a tariff on every man, woman and child in the land and presents it to him. With public largesses great beyond calculation, and with expenses reduced to a minimum by a system of laws which shows its respect for the dignity of labor by permitting unrestricted immigration, his coffers daily grow full to bursting, and he builds libraries in Scotland, and wines and dines with kings without fear of exhausting his supply of pelf.

This is protection. The workingmen in this city, who last spring voted for protection, will do well to cherish up this little lesson against next election day.

THE CITY AND DISTRICT

Gas Fixtures.

Braden & Stamford have just imported a fine lot of gas fixtures which every one should see before going elsewhere.

Exhibition August 11 and 12.

The B. C. Horticultural Society and Fruit Growers Association have fixed the 11th and 12th of August as the dates for their exhibition. The local committee will hold a meeting this evening in the City Hall to perfect the final arrangements.

The Place to go to.

To make room for our new stock of goods that is coming, we will sell the stock in hand consisting of gent's furnishing, etc., at prices that have no equal. Our children's jersey suits will all be sold at cost. Lion Gent's Furnishing House, 74 Yates street.

Only Burning Tar.

Burning asphalt on the site of the public market caused a large amount of smoke and much excitement but no damage. The asphaltum caught fire just about noon and those who were off for lunch rushed to the place expecting to find all Chinatown on fire.

Two Sewers, One Street.

Johnson street is been torn up again for a sewer and will be in a mess for another two weeks. This is the second experience that this street has had with the sewer, and although unpleasant for the time being, ends well, as the residents will have two outlets for their sewage.

Another Shack Going.

Another old shack is being removed from Johnson street to make room for the new brick block of Gilmore & McCandless. M. Humber & Sons, who have got the contract, commenced to pull the old buildings down and will begin operations on the new block immediately.

Another Strawberry Festival.

The ladies of the Roman Catholic congregation are making arrangements for a strawberry and ice cream festival, which is to be held one day next week. It is going to be one of those affairs which these ladies are so eminently capable of inaugurating and conducting, judging by the successful character of all their enterprises.

Too Much Music.

The residents of Trounce Avenue have a grievance. That grievance is music. They say a piano and organ in rooms on one portion of that thoroughfare alternate from daylight till dark, and long after that, grinding out discordant strains, and causing much nervousness and possibly profanity. An injunction is talked of.

Mr. T. G. Rayner Entertains.

Mr. T. G. Rayner gave a very pleasant social last evening in the Pandora Avenue Methodist Church to his class and a number of his friends. He was assisted in the entertainment of his guests by a number of his lady friends. During the evening Mr. Rayner made an address to the young men of his class and was followed by the Rev. Coverdale Watson.

A Successful Test.

The new fire engine "John Grant" was successfully tested a few evenings ago when it was used in pumping out the 25,000 gallon cistern on the corner of Johnson and Store streets. With three streams the engine averaged 715 gallons per minute for upwards of 30 minutes. This is a pretty good record and also shows the usefulness of the new cistern in case of fire.

Three Days Docked.

The police will have only seven days' holiday this year, in which to seek seclusion and forget the wicked, wicked world. Formerly they used to have ten days, and in eastern cities it is the custom to give the police officers a day's vacation for every month in the year, an arrangement which gives a man an opportunity of having a holiday that will be beneficial to him as regards both rest and recreation.

Two Years for Burglary.

The speedy trial court was in session this morning, with Mr. Justice Crease on the bench. The case set for trial was R. Kennedy, charged with an attempted burglary of the store of Fell & Co. on the evening of June 12. Through very clever detective work of Policeman Smith the crime was conclusively proved against the prisoner, and Mr. Justice Crease found him guilty and sentenced him to two years' imprisonment.

Eastern Teams Coming.

There is a possibility of at least one eastern team taking part in the forthcoming firemen's tournament to be held in this city. The Blythe, Ont., team contemplate a visit to the coast this year, and a gentleman from that town is now communicating with the secretary of the team with the object of trying to get them to be in Victoria during their trip. If they come other teams from the east of the mountains will undoubtedly follow their example as the Blythe team is a good one and all the crack teams would like to have a run with them.

Blue Jackets Ashore.

The streets wear a dark blue hue today, owing to so many blue jackets from the Warspite having received a three days' holiday. Accompanying them is a corporal and a number of patrolmen, whose business is to see that none of them desert or get into any trouble. At the expiration of the three days they will return on board and another detachment come on shore, and this will be continued until all have had a chance to get rid of their sea legs. This is the first chance the men had to get ashore since they started on their cruise into South American waters, and they are enjoying themselves in a perfectly orderly manner.

It is Badly Needed.

In his report to the council last evening Chief Deasy called attention to the urgent need of fire protection inside the new city limits, but particularly at Victoria West. The latter portion of the city has grown wonderfully during the past few years, and the district is now thickly settled. There are hundreds of costly houses within its limits, which it is the duty of the city to protect from fire. But no protection is afforded them. They are nearly two miles away from the fire halls, and the department could not possibly reach the place, in case of fire, in time to save anything. Steps should be taken immediately to afford them the required protection.

Preserving Season

Now come. A full line of fruit jars at R. H. Jameson's, 33 Fort street.

Just Received.

In stock, new tub butter, 35 cents per pound; three pounds for $1. R. H. Jameson.

For the Logging Camps.

The Closed Sea Trouble.

The Board of Trade and the Sealers' Association will meet in joint session to morrow afternoon to discuss the Behring Sea question. Their purpose is to agree upon some united line of action to present the subject to the British Commissioners who are due here early next week en route to the north.

Special Choral Service.

It is the intention to have a special choral service next Sunday at St. Barnabas church, corner of Cook and Chatham streets. The choir have made considerable progress lately, and have thereby created much favorable comment, so that Sunday's service promises to be creditable to the choir and choirmaster.

Another Drunken Sailor.

Another member of the crew of the rice ship Thermopylæ has been in trouble and was before the provincial court this afternoon. His name is Thomas Quintley and he was charged with being drunk and using abusive language to the mate. He pled guilty but on his promise not to drink again for two months' he received the light fine of $5.

Odd Fellowship Matters.

The Waverly Lodge, C.O.O.F. will hold its regular quarterly meeting to-night to receive the financial statement and make arrangements for the reception of Mr. Wade, father of Dr. Wade, of this city. Mr Wade is coming here to take charge of the Order. He is one of its most successful and energetic organizers. He will arrive some time during the present month.

Drowned in Cowichan River.

News reached the city last evening of the drowning in Cowichan River of Robert Kenny. The deceased, it seems, was trying to ford the river when he slipped and was drowned. How he could drown in the river was hard to conceive as at present the water is very low. The deceased was employed by Angus Fraser at his hotel at Duncan's and was a married man.

A Painful Accident.

While on her way down from the northern logging camps, the steamer Rainbow called in at Bickley Bay and brought a lumberman, who had been seriously hurt, to Vancouver. The man was cutting down a large tree which, in falling, struck a large burnt stump, and glancing off hit the lumberman on the side, knocking him about 20 feet and breaking two of his ribs. The poor fellow will be laid up for some time, but it is thought that his injuries will not be serious.

Will Run More Frequently.

The announcement made some time ago in these columns that the N. E. Tramway Co. would not lay double tracks through the streets until after the sewers are finished, but would put down switches along the routes, is now being carried out. A switch is being put down on Douglas street, between Cormorant and Fisguard, and others will be put down immediately. This will allow the cars to run about every ten minutes which improvement will be appreciated by the public generally.

The Power of the Press.

There is a camping colony of St. Andrew's Church boys at Sailor Bay, and as they found it difficult to get the TIMES regularly, they have launched a publication of their own, with a name that comprises a goodly proportion of the words in an ordinary dictionary. It is not printed by a perfecting press with a capacity of 40,000 an hour. It is written on a type-writer. It's advertising patronage is not large, and it has not the latest news from European centres, but it is full of breezy and well written local matter. Neither the Government nor Opposition party has yet sought its influence in the political arena.

Police Court Notes.

The police court this morning was engaged nearly two hours in trying a number of petty cases, all of which had their cause from a whiskey bottle, as the justice remarked at the conclusion of the proceedings. Besides the drunks James Baruswell was fined $4.50 for obstructing the street. Alex. Ross, $10 for attempting to collect a bill by forcible means. John Gardner received one month's imprisonment at hard labor for being an idle and dissolute person. Charles McDonald charged with an assault upon Peter Sweeney, was put on trial, but after the evidence was partly in the case was remanded until Saturday.

The prosecution of young Alford, who was convicted yesterday of the larceny of a pair of shoes from Staff-Sergeant Redding, was at the instance of the police. From our report it might be inferred differently.

"Why, now I cannot get enough to eat," says one lady who formerly had no appetite, but took Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The Behring Sea Commission.

The United States warship Marion is due from San Francisco to-day. She will lay in Port Townsend awaiting the arrival of the commissioners who are to go in her to Behring Sea. During the sealing season the Marion's rendezvous will be the Pribyloff, and in September she will continue on the China station without returning here. Her only passenger up from San Francisco will be Lieutenant Henderson of the revenue marine, who goes to join the Bear in place of Lieutenant Robinson, who was drowned with his boat's crew at Icy cape a few weeks ago.

The Marion's officers for the cruise are: Commander J. R. Bartlett, commanding; Lieutenant J. J. Hunker, executive officer; Lieutenant Norris, navigating officer; Lieutenants H. P. McIntosh, H. G. Rogers and J. H. Hetherington; Ensigns G. R. Slocum and William Crose; chief engineer, W. S. Smith; assistant engineer, W. L. Wood; paymaster, H. G. Colby; surgeon, F. B. Stevenson; marine officer, First Lieutenant C. M. Perkins; past assistant surgeon, T. A. Berryhill; pay clerk, Hesketh; gunner, Cross; boatswain, Work; carpenter, Maples; sailmaker, Tolman.

Warspite Burning Powder.

The warship Warspite returned from a target practice of two days outside and is now in Esquimalt harbor again. One of her officers gave the following interesting data of her firing which in respect to its accuracy was excellent. The 9-inch breech-loading guns were fired 52 times at an expenditure of 3840 pounds of powder. The 6-inch breech-loading guns were fired 160 times, using 4192 pounds of powder. The machine guns were fired a great many times at an aggregate expenditure of powder of about 2000 pounds. In other words she burnt in less than two days over 10,000 pounds of powder. During the torpedo practice in the outer harbor yesterday afternoon a $1000 Whitehead torpedo was lost through somebody's carelessness. It had been intended to be so arranged that when it had expended its force it would float so as to be easily recovered. Instead of floating it did the opposite thing and sank in very deep water. A search was made for it but it could not be located so the place was buoyed. To-day a steam launch went out to the spot and are now grappling for it but with very little expectation of ever finding it until it is washed up on the shore somewhere.

A VALUABLE CEMENT.

Portland Cement to be Made on Puget Sound —Where is the Material?

Mr. Hugh M. Wright, the well-known marble dealer of Seattle, started for New York yesterday morning. On the 15th he will sail by the Majestic for England, to be gone two or three months.

"My time will be spent in England and Scotland," said he to a P.-I. representative at the Diller hotel last night, "and my object is to study the processes of making Portland hydraulic and Roman cement, and to secure plans for a plant to be established in this vicinity. These cements are not made in this country at all, because the material has not been found. All is imported from England at considerable cost. For instance, San Francisco consumes 1,000,000 barrels a year, bringing a business of $3,000,000 to the wholesalers. I have found in looking up the customs records here that with a duty of 32 cents per barrel, Seattle has paid since the fire and up to January 1, 1891, a duty of $120,000 on this cement. You can see from this what a bonanza the manufacture of this cement would be here.

"Well, we have found the material here. We have had it fully analyzed, and there is no longer any doubt as to that part. Now I go to England to study the manufacture, and I am confident that before long these cements will be made for America on Puget Sound."

It is understood that the material for making the cement is on the west coast of this island, and that the chief interest that Seattle has in the find is that Seattle capital will work the scheme. Hugh Wright was formerly a resident of Victoria.

BEAUTIFUL LANGUAGE.

Bunster Waylays Grennan for Using It Improperly.

"Now I've got you, and now I'm going to lick you—lick you—lick you!"

It was out on Sanchez street, after dark one day last month, and every time the speaker, O. C. Bunster, said "lick you," he punched at the other man's head. The other man was Wm. M. Grennan, and he had to submit to the blows, for he is at least fifty pounds lighter than Bunster, and the latter had surprised him from behind in the dark street. Grennan was thumped considerably before he managed to escape, and when he reached home the bruises laid him up for several days.

Bunster is a tailor, and has a shop on Taylor street. Grennan was bookkeeper for Gabel, the tailor. Gabel's business takes him East occasionally, and while he is away Mrs. Gabel supervises the business. Last month he was East, and Mrs. Gabel and Grennan got disputing over the way affairs in the shop were going. Grennan claimed that Mrs. Gabel was neglecting the business, and, when Gabel returned he would be blamed for the faults and he did not propose to shoulder her errors. Mrs. Gabel told him to mind his own business. The two had some high words and Grennan was discharged. Bunster, who is Mrs. Gabel's brother, happened into the shop during the afternoon, and Mrs. Gabel complained to him of Grennan's language. She said he had insulted her—called her names.

Bunster boarded a car and rode out in the vicinity of Grennan's home on Sanchez street. It was dark when the latter came along, but he recognized his man and the punching scene followed.

Grennan had Bunster arrested. The latter pleaded guilty and was fined $60 in the police court for the exercise of his fists. Grennan was not satisfied with this, and yesterday he brought suit in the Superior Court for $2,500 damages for personal injuries.—S. F. Examiner.

Both Bunster and his sister, Mrs. Gabel, were formerly residents of Victoria, having been brought up in this city.

THE GORGE ROAD CHURCH.

A Handsome Structure to be Shortly Erected for Worshippers in That Section.

Mr. Hooper, the architect, has just compled the plans for the new church which the Gorge Road Methodist congregation intend building, and the plans will be submitted to a meeting of the church in a day or so. It will be a handsome structure, though no space that is likely to be of use will be devoted to mere ornamentation. The interior is arranged in a horseshoe fashion, which utilizes all possible space to the best advantage. Down stairs there will be seating accommodation for 480 persons, and in case of necessity 130 more can be seated by means of drop stools along the aisles. The gallery will seat 304 worshippers. There are excellent school, choir and vestry facilities, the first being given the old church, which will also make an admirable lecture and meeting room.

There is a broad bold entrance of finished stone facing on the Gorge Road; this leads through a nice vestibule into the church. The general style is of a Romanesque character, not too heavy for the size, carried out in local pressed brick with stone dressings.

THE WATT'S PROTEST.

The following letter from the secretary of the Burrard Inlet Rowing Club places the Watts' protest in a stronger light, although the circumstances surrounding this matter seem to be conflicting to a degree. One side is as absolutely certain there was a protest entered as the other is there was not. This race seems to have been visited with a famine of that which the bicycle races had a plenitude. There were so many conditions surrounding the latter and there were so many authorities that things became inextricably muddled and jumbled. The boat race in question appears to have been the reverse. It seems peculiar, though, that Mr. Watts' friends are so positive of the protest having been entered, while several uninterested people hold an opposite view. It was an oversight that representatives of the B. I. R. C. were not present at the sub-committee meeting; their presence would have been of material assistance; and it is only fair that both sides should have been heard. The committee necessarily sat in a judicial sense, and should have collected all evidence with a view to a just judgment.

The letter, which is as follows, will receive the consideration of the committee.

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 27th, 1891.

W. P. Lindley, Esq., Sec. Regatta Committee, Victoria.

DEAR SIR,—Your esteemed favor of the 4th inst. came duly to hand and I have delayed replying to same until the matter had been fully gone into again by our executive committee.

After due consideration of all the facts of the case, I am instructed to advise you that we cannot withdraw the protest, entered on behalf of Mr. William Watts, of our club, for the reason that no opportunity was given us, or Mr. Watts, to be present at the meeting you mention, and consequently our case was not represented at all. We must also beg to differ with the reasons offered by your sub-committee which you send us.

1st. We most distinctly repudiate the statement that Mr. Watts entered no protest prior to rowing the race. Our captain, Mr. L. G. McPhillips, and the writer were on the launch at the start and distinctly saw Mr. Watts make the protest to Mr. Brodrick, who seemed to be the only person in full charge of everything connected with the races.

2nd.—If a protest is made before starting the race, there is no necessity of making a further protest before leaving the boat, except as to fouls, etc., claimed during the race.

3rd. There is no rowing law as to the necessity of finishing the race or crossing the line at the finish except as regards fouling, etc.

4th.—That Mr. Watts was aware that the size of the boat had been changed from 18 to 20 feet does not of necessity prove that he had been advised, or was aware of the change in the course and conditions. As a matter of fact the alteration in the size of the boat was discovered quite by accident by our captain, Mr. McPhillips, some little time before the 24th May, when he was talking over the matter of the race with Messrs. Crane, McGregor & Boggs, the donators of the cup, in Victoria. Every possible enquiry was made on the day before, and on the morning of the race to find out exactly if any other alterations had been arranged, but no information was given as to any change in the course, and Mr. Watts came to the post under the direct belief that the course was to be the same as last year in every respect. In short Mr. Watts having duly made his protest before starting, all the reasons offered by your sub-committee are invalid and cannot stand.

We do not wish to do anything that will in any way affect the amicable relations existing between the Victoria and Vancouver Rowing Clubs, but we most certainly think that for the sake of amateur sport that fair play and no favor should be the one essential feature, and we cannot feel as matters stand that this has been accorded to Mr. Watts.

I trust you will lay this matter again before the committee and advise me of the result.

Yours very truly, GEO. M. CALLENDER,
Hon. Sec'y. Burrard Inlet Rowing Club.

PETERSON HAS SAILED.

THE HENLEY REGATTA.

LONDON, July 8.—The great annual Henley races came off to-day and although it rained throughout, every event was completed in the presence of an immense crowd. The grand challenge cup was won by the Leanders crew beating the Thames and Kingston crews handily. The boat they used was constructed upon a new plan and it carried them admirably running well between the strokes. It is thought by many that its success will lead to a revolution in the style of constructing race boats.

The Thames Challenge Cup, for eights, was won by the Mouseley Boat Club, and the Ladies' Cup was carried off by the Brasenose crew. Eaton beat Rodley for the Ladies' Plate, and Nickalls beat Ellis for the Diamond Sculls. In the final heat for the Visitors' Cup, Trinity Hall rowed over the course as the first Trinity crew having been scratched.

BASEBALL.

SEATTLE NOT THERE.

Spokane defeated the Seattle team yesterday afternoon in a contest remarkable for poor fielding by both clubs. For 2 hours and 45 minutes the few spectators present witnessed as finished a comedy of errors as could be imagined. There were very few redeeming features about the game, and those few were so completely overshadowed by the glaring mishaps that it would be much easier to discuss the few good points than to show wherein the players failed. Although Spokane won the game, yet up to the very last it was expected the home team would show a larger total in the error column than the visitors, but this was destined not to be. Klopf and Turner worked like Trojans and soon piled up so many errors that the home team was robbed of its laurels, even in this respect.

Tacoma club has signed Betz for short.

He had a record of 2:20¼ and was the sire of Pennant, 2:17; Pat Downing, 2:17¼, and other famous trotters. He was owned by J. H. and W. R. Bowman.

ECLIPSE JR. A RECORD SMASHER.

HELENA, Mont., July 7.—At the Deer Lodge race meeting to-day Eclipse jr. won a three-eighths mile dash in 34 1-5 seconds, breaking the record, which stood at 34½, made by Cyclone a. Helena in 1889.

LACROSSE.

The next schedule match takes place August 8th, and it is imperatively necessary that the home team prepare to represent Victoria on the right side of the fence, both during and after that match. Friday night is practice night, and it is hoped that from now there will be no shirking active and earnest practice. There is no use depending on a fluke for success. It only comes after painstaking care in preparation. Not only the regulation practices should be attended, but every available opportunity should be taken. Victoria should lead here as in other matters.

The question of grounds is still being actively prosecuted by President Maugurn, but one man can't do everything. He needs co-operation. The general meeting of the club will be held on the 16th, and no doubt some progress in this direction will be reported.

CYCLING.

There is talk of a bicycle factory being established in Seattle. It is likely the machines manufactured there will be so constructed that they can walk up stairs, or that riders can coast up a hill at an angle of 45.

COLONEL OF THE FOURTH.

A STORY OF THE WAR OF THE REVOLUTION.

By Bernard Bigby, Author of "Loyal at Last," "My Lady Fantastic," "Ellen's Great Secret," "Fell Among Thieves," Etc., Etc.

"Well, Mr. Green, I am right glad we have met, not only that it has given me pleasure to shake hands with a Northern man down here, but because I see a way to utilize our meeting."

"Of course I understand what you mean," the minister assented, readily. "You would have me preach the Word to your men up in the woods there?"

"I am afraid I had no such good intentions." The Major was positively blushing. "I meant that you would be perhaps willing to give me some valuable information."

There was a blank look of disappointment in the minister's face, as he replaced the books he had already drawn from his capacious pockets.

"I am sure, if we had time, the men would much profit by your ministrations," Major Hopkins explained.

"Ever the same cry—no time in this short life to prepare for the eternity of the next. Well, sir, I do not mean to force my services upon you. Say briefly what I can do for you, for the day wanes and I have far to ride."

"You can tell us, if you have seen any thing of the Confederate forces in these parts, or whether you have heard any thing of their movements."

"Surely I can," was the suave reply. "Bragg's men passed southwards through yonder village—you can just see its smoke in the far distance—ten days ago. There are many God-fearing Unionists living there—they call the place Winstanley—and they feared fire and pillage, but the troops were hurried and they passed them by unhurt."

"That is good—well, sir, have you any thing more to tell us?"

"Why, yes, I have. Some men who had been out hunting in the woods told me this morning that they had seen a train of a dozen supply-wagons which they thought would reach Winstanley by to-morrow at latest. Now, wouldn't this be a chance for you? How many men do you muster?"

"Oh, a mere handful—two companies of infantry—but, did they say how strong the escort was?"

"Just one troop of cavalry, nothing more, and so muckered up by a long march that they could hardly crawl."

"That's splendid news, indeed; but are you sure of the direction Bragg's army was taking?"

"Positive. He was going due south with a big force, in great haste, too, or you may depend on it our friends' barns and houses would not have roofs over them."

"And you think that the villagers would receive us hospitably?"

"As Saul did the warriors of Midian," was the staunch reply; "and now, as I can give you no more information, permit me to wend my way in peace."

"Adieu, sir! and God speed you on your journey."

They watched him ascend the hillside till he disappeared at a turn in the road, and then started back to camp.

"He sat in his saddle like a trooper," the Major critically observed; "and what a splendid physique the old fellow has! Say, Frank, I do honestly think those itinerant preachers are after all the true soldiers of Christ, suffering as they do toil, privation and discomfort in His name. They may be illiterate, but, hang me, if they're not in earnest."

But Frank's thoughts were on another subject.

"May I speak to Charlie about this unpleasant matter we were talking of, sir? Perhaps a word of warning might bring him to his senses."

"Certainly not," was the stern reply. "My hands are so tied now by promises I have given to you and others, that I am not in a position to confront him with proofs of his folly. Remember, I rely upon your silence and watchfulness—there must be no lack of confidence between us two now or ever again. And your asking me this, reminds me to inquire what sort of a fellow is James Lawson, who claims to be a companion of your early days."

"Well," Frank hesitated, for he hated to set the Major against his old playmate by speaking the open truth, "he's not an intensely moral young man, I believe—in fact—"

"A bit of a scamp. Ah, I judged as much," and Major Hopkins hurried away to his duties.

So, Frank thought, the mystery thickens, and James Lawson is somehow or other mixed up in it: yet, how the deuce could he know any thing about it. Surely Charlie Fulton, with all his folly, could never have been so rash as to use this worthless fellow as a go-between; but such a misfortune was quite possible, for Lawson was in Charlie's company, and had all the shrewdness to worm himself into the young officer's confidence, if once the chance were offered him.

Meanwhile Rev. Abel Green—or Parson Abe, as his rural admirers so lovingly called him—was hustling his old mule along at a very unclerical pace and using some very unsanctimonious expression every time the poor beast attempted to slacken its speed, so that in three-quarters of an hour he was nearly six miles from the spot where his dear compatriots from the North were making ready for their descent on the hospitable inhabitants of Winstanley. Turning from the road into the woods at a gap in a fence which seemed familiar to him, he cantered along under the trees till he reached a clearing, where a sight presented itself that would have charmed an artist in its picturesque aspect—three hundred dismounted Confederate cavalrymen, reclining here and there in little groups, while their horses were busily cropping the sweet grass, which grew on the bank of a stream. Hardly pausing to give the sentry the countersign, he rode straight to a knot of officers, who hailed him gleefully.

"Hullo, Lascelles, what news from the Yanks?"

"Sold them into bondage like his brethren did Joseph!" he laughed, as he sprang from the saddle with the elasticity of youth. "Say, boys, mother was always down on our private theatricals, but I allow she'd clap her hands if she'd only seen me play this pious role to-day."

A roar of laughter greeted this brilliant sally, which was somewhat checked, however, by the approach of a man older than the rest, whose stern features showed that he did not share the general merriment.

"Such madcap tricks as these, Lascelles," he said, in a grave tone of expostulation, "do not meet my approval, and I will not have a repetition of them. Besides, the game is not worth the candle, for if those Yanks had found you out, they would have, very properly, strung you up to a bough of the first tree they came to, and I can not afford to have my best officers run such risks. I allow, if you'd played the role in tragedy, instead of comedy, your mother would hardly have appreciated your histrionic ability as keenly as you imagine."

The young man was abashed.

"Besides," the senior continued, "do you think your action quite in accordance with the high repute for chivalry this corps has enjoyed? However as the folly has been perpetrated let me hear the result of your escapade."

The young man told his story, but somehow or other all the fun seemed to be frozen out of the adventure by his superior's austere criticism.

"Well, you have done one good thing for us at any rate. You have drawn the enemy from the woods into the open, and we can bag them by a night attack on Winstanley as easily as catching rabbits in a net."

As he strode away, one of the officers slapped Lascelles on the shoulder, as he gayly cried:

"Don't grizzle, old man. Nat Hawes never had more appreciation of a practical joke in his nature than there is blood in a Norfolk oyster. In my opinion you have done a very plucky, commendable thing, and there are brighter eyes than old Nat's will gleam approval when the story's told at Nashville."

Dress Reform Magazine Fails.

The Jenness-Miller Magazine Company has failed, and the question arises, must we attribute it to the failure of dress reform or to defective financial management of the publication? Management probably had a good deal to do with it, not that the divided skirt has not been adopted and is growing in favor, but because, as has been said by a writer on this subject, "Mrs. Jenness-Miller not only advocated dress reform but illustrated it in black and white in the pages of "Dress." "Women," continues the writer, "may be induced to believe, theoretically, in the beauty of Greek lines; they may, for the sake of the health which they are none of them so foolish as to disdain, be prevailed upon to wear garments in which they can breathe and move freely; they all admire, in a Greek statue or medieval painting, the grace and simplicity of flowing robes. But the wisest woman in the world, when she is to consult her dressmaker on the style of a new gown, wants a fashion plate to look at. She does not want a wood cut of a substantial, well-grown woman, such as she is, perhaps, herself, standing in a Delsarte attitude. She wants a highly colored, impossibly constructed figure, poised on nothing, with a wasp waist and hideous bulging shoulders, simpering vacuously. This Mrs. Jenness-Miller disdained to offer."

And this is one reason why she failed to meet the demand. Her plates were not only not frivolous, they were not pretty. No woman was ever fascinated by them, however sincerely she might believe in the principles on which they were supposed to be based. The fashion plate, as we have it in the French publications of to-day, is exactly as illogical, as grotesque, as ugly from an artistic standpoint as it was a century ago. It has not improved in the least. And it is correspondingly dear to the feminine heart. If Mrs. Jenness-Miller wants to start over again, and succeed, let her make a small concession to the traditions of the sex and give her followers an outward semblance of frivolity. The divided skirt and the Jaeger underwear may be there, but they must be disguised; nobody objects to dress reform so long as it is not made too obvious.

The Diamond Dyes

COMPLICATED MARRIAGES.

The Two Nuptial Ceremonies Which Are Necessary in France.

In the higher French classes the custom is that the civil or legal marriage should be celebrated before mayor or magistrate the day or two before the religious one, a custom whose origin is the desire so show that they consider the religious ceremony alone valid from a Christian point of view. The young bride returns to her family on leaving the town hall, and only starts for her wedding journey after the marriage has taken place in a church, in a temple—as Protestant places of worship are called—or in a synagogue. This creates a rather equivocal situation, says the New York Commercial Advertiser, for if, which is rare, but has sometimes happened, some incident should occur between the two ceremonies to delay the second one, the husband and wife would be legally married without being so in fact. I knew of such a case. On the night of the civil marriage the husband received a telegraphic dispatch calling him to his mother's bedside, who was dying, and who lived in a foreign land and whose illness had prevented her being present at the wedding. He left, received her last blessing, and rendered her the last sad rites, and was afterward kept at the place by business affairs relating to her death and which were of the greatest importance to him. This lasted for a month. His wife, who was a devout Catholic, would not have consented for anything in the world to go and join him until their union had been blessed by a priest. During this interval the husband met a cousin he had formerly loved. She succeeded in reconquering him, and he had not the courage to consummate the marriage legally contracted in Paris. He offered to be divorced, but the young wife's religious scruples prevented her from accepting this proposition, and she asked for and obtained without difficulty a legal separation on the grounds of desertion. However, the husband found a roundabout way, more or less irregular, to marry his cousin in Holland, where he lives now, but in France he would be considered a bigamist and his legal wife is Mme. X., who has never been his wife. The affair created a great scandal at the time in Parisian society.

THE VILLAGE HATTER.

Something That Is Interesting and Historical About Headgear.

The wool hat industry is native to the soil in this country, according to the New York Sun. Away back in colonial times there was a village hatter, just as there was a village blacksmith. He made hats of felted wool, doubtless in imitation of patterns brought from the mother country by the latest immigrants. Wool felting, by the way, was, according to an ancient tradition, the accidental discovery of the hatters' patron saint.

According to the legend the good man, trudging along a dusty highway that led to his monastery, found his feet bleeding and blistered from the gravel that got into his sandals. Not being of a penitential order, he paused beside a hedge, picked some wool that passing sheep had left upon the thorns, and thrust it into his sandals for greater ease. Then he trudged onward, and on reaching the monastery was surprised to find the wool felted into a compact mass by the constant pounding it had received from his feet. This hint was enough, and in course of time the future saint set up as a felter.

From the monastery the trade spread to neighboring villages, and so over Europe. In course of time, too, the colonists brought it with them to America. Here it flourished in a small way for more than a century, until the stirring activity of Americans led them to cast about for labor-saving machinery. However, the factory system was not thoroughly developed in this country until thirty or thirty-five years ago.

The factories do practically all the work now, and all kinds of hats are marvelously cheapened. Buffalo Bill's cowboys buy their hats of a manufacturer in central New York, and they are vastly cheaper than those made by hand in Mexico. Cowboy fancy must be studied by the manufacturer, and there is a great variety of ornaments on these hats. One has an enamelled leather band about the crown; another an elaborate tinsel owl on the front; another a stout twisted cord or band, with a tiny baseball dangling from one end.

The Sidesaddle.

The horrified opposers of the movement for women's riding en cavalier may be interested in learning that had it not been for an accident of fashion the gentler sex would be striding their horses still, and that the sidesaddle is not an invention due to the advanced modesty of civilization. It appears that one Anna of Bohemia, eldest daughter of a German emperor and wife of an English king, introduced the custom, not from delicate repulsion to the old method, but simply because she was afflicted with some sort of deformity that rendered it impossible for her to ride upon the saddles in common use. In those days it was imperative that a woman should ride, accordingly the first sidesaddle was invented. Royalty had then, as now, snobbish followers ever on the alert to adopt fashions honored by its patronage, and in a few months every woman of place in England possessed a sidesaddle and the custom was established.

Dickens' Bird "Grip."

A letter from Charles Dickens to Angus Fletcher, lately made public, thus describes the passing of a bird immortalized by the novelist: "Grip is no more. He was only ill a day. I sent for the medical gentleman (a bird fancier in the new road) on the first appearance of his indisposition. He promptly attended and administered castor oil and warm gruel. Next day the patient walked in a thoughtful manner up and down the stable till the clock struck twelve at noon, then staggered twice, exclaimed: 'Hal-loa, old girl'—either as a remonstrance with his weakness or an apostrophe to death, I am not sure which—and expired."

A Horrible Spectacle.

NEW YORK, July 8.—The body of A. Smiler, one of the murderers killed by electricity in Sing Sing, was brought to this city this afternoon by undertaker Hulbury on the train, which left Sing Sing at 1:36 o'clock. The body had been claimed by Smiler's widow, the woman he married and deserted for the woman whom he afterwards murdered. The body was taken from the train to the undertaking establishment at 365 West 25th street. Three or four hundred people were gathered to witness the arrival of the body. By a previous arrangement with the undertaker, an Evening World reporter was in waiting at the rooms to see the body of the executed murderer. The coffin was taken to the basement by the undertaker's assistants and the lid was quickly taken off, exposing the dead man's face. The reporter stood close by and was horrified at the sight that met his eyes. Smiler's face had been burned and seamed by the electric fluid until it presented the appearance of being boiled. The hair on the front of the head, the moustache and eyebrows had been singed off. The face was furrowed and scarred as though with a hot iron. These marks were not those of dissecting knife or scalpel. They were palpable burns. Pressing closer to see the dead face plainer, the reporter attracted the attention of the undertaker's assistants, and they seized him by the shoulder and compelled him to leave the place before any other portion of the body was exposed. To repeated requests to be allowed to see the body the reporter was informed that no one but the undertaker and his assistants would be permitted to see it until it had been fully prepared for burial. It was learned through one of the undertaker's assistants, that Smiler's left leg was burned to the bone, through the calf. The eyes were badly burned, though the eyeballs were not destroyed.

Unbearable Pain.

Dear Sirs,—I suffered for three days very severely from Summer Complaint, and could get no relief, but kept getting worse until the pain was almost unbearable, and I was very weak. After everything else had failed I tried Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. The first dose gave relief, and it did not fail to cure me.

The Dudley Jewels.

LONDON, July 9.—A clerk named Edward Wilkinson is under arrest, who confessed to having, with the assistance of two accomplices, stolen the Countess of Dudley's jewels at Euston Station four years ago. In his confession Wilkinson says that while one of his accomplices attracted the attention of the servants of the Countess, the other stole the jewels, which were subsequently sold in Amsterdam, Wilkinson receiving $10,000 as his share of the proceeds. Since the robbery one of the prisoner's partners died.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

That Tired Feeling

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BROOLS, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PHEBE MOSIER, 60 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

COAL

(FORMERLY THE VANCOUVER COAL CO.),

ARE THE LARGEST COAL PRODUCERS ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

THE NANAIMO COAL (Used principally for Gas and Domestic Purposes).

THE SOUTH FIELD COAL (Steam Fuel).

THE NEW WELLINGTON COAL (House and Steam Coal) are mined by this Company only.

THE "NANAIMO" COAL gives a large percentage of Gas, a high Illuminating Power, unequalled by any oth inous Gas Coal the world, and a superior quality of Coke.

THE "SOUTH FIELD" COAL is now used by all the Leading Steamship Lines o the Pacific.

THE "NEW WELLINGTON" COAL, which was introduced early in the present year, has already become a favorite fuel fo domestic purposes. It is a clean, hard coal, makes a bright and cheerful fire, and its lasting qualities make it the mo economical fuel in the market.

The several Mines of the Company are connected with their Wharves at Nanaimo and Departure Bay, where ships of the largest tonnage are loaded at all states of the tide. Special dispatch is given to Mail and Ocean steamers.

NANAIMO NEWS.

A Little Boy Killed on the Track—Saved From Drowning, Etc.

NANAIMO, July 9.—A little boy named James Aitken, met with a fatal accident yesterday by being run over by some coal cars on the New V. C. Company's track. The little fellow, in company with a few companions, were on a berry picking excursion, and in order to get to their destination quickly attempted to jump on board the moving cars unobserved by the driver. The screams from the boys companions attracted the attention of the engineer, and looking back he observed the mangled form of the boy lying on the track, he having been run over by several of the cars. The poor little fellow was picked up and conveyed home as quickly as possible, where Drs. Craeger and Callaghan examined him and found one arm and one leg nearly severed from the body. They did all they could to alleviate the suffering of the little fellow, but he expired a few hours afterward

A GALLANT ACT.

While a youth named Anderson was playing on Johnson's wharf yesterday, he caught his foot in one of the boards, and was precipitated into the water. The occurrence was observed by a Mr. W. Cox, who is employed in repairing the wharf, and without a moment's hesitation he plunged in after the youth, who was struggling for his life beneath the surface of the water. The rescuer clinched him by the waist and succeeded in swimming to shore with him. But for the promptness and bravery of the man the boy would have found a watery grave, as there were no boats close at hand.

ORANGEMEN'S DAY.

The programme for the extensive proceedings on Monday next by the Orange lodges have been issued, and show them to be arranged in an elaborate scale. The bill consists of reception of sister lodges, addresses, luncheon, sports of all description, dancing prize for best lady dancer, and special attractions The event is to take place on the "green" and a charge of 50 cents will be made. There is to be no liquor sold on the ground which is very gratifying to the majority of the citizens. Yesterday when a couple of Orangemen were arranging an arch, one of them asked an observer where he should hang the evergreen? "Don't use green," remarked the observer, that's a fenian color. No! No! replied the other, we didn't leave them any colors.

HARD ON NANAIMOITES.

The Nanaimo merchants who are accustomed to do a large business at Wellington have been notified that in future they will be required to pay a Provincial license of $40, in addition to the one they already pay in the city for delivering goods at Wellington. The merchants here think this action of the authorities is rather hard upon them.
